RETARGETING STRATEGY

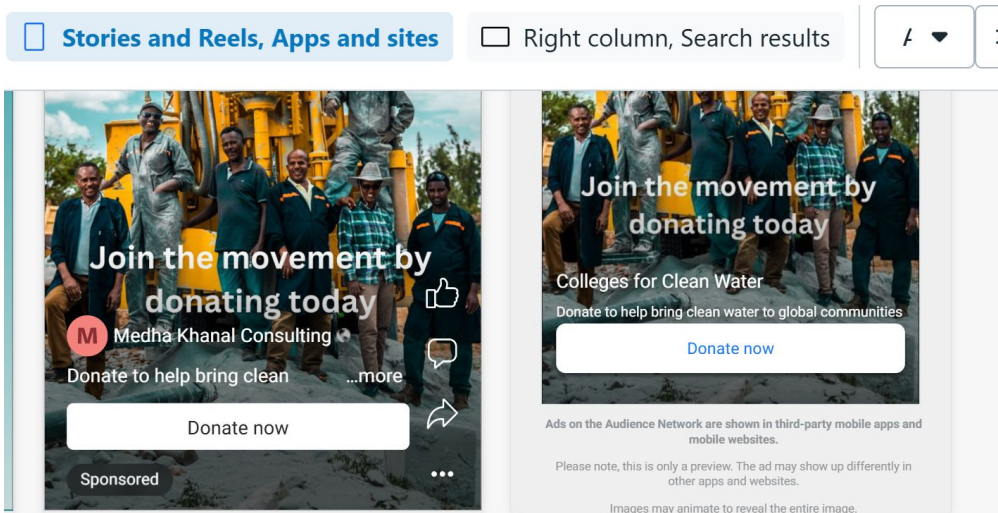

I believe a demographic worth targeting is nature lovers/outdoor hikers and adventurous who are looking for volunteer opportunities. I think these people would be involved with activism, especially in a field that is about water conservation and accessibility. They would also be invested in following and supporting the organization long-term.

LevelUp: Ambassador Program

LEVELUP | BRAND EXAMPLE

- Brand that's doing a great job marketing to students on-campus:
Celsius
- What they do well: Celsius has become very popular amongst college students. They can be bought anywhere on campus, are accessible and cost-friendly, and have a reputation for helping energize students, especially during finals or midterms.

LEVELUP | charity: water engagement ideas

- Creating campaigns on campus like a booth/tent with info and student volunteer opportunities
- Collabing with influencers with college student following and doing fundraisers on social media with influencers
- Partnering with food businesses on campus to offer students the chance to donate a few cents directly to the organization anytime they buy food
